$195 Per Course

What source(s) will military students use to purchase books and/or resource materials for their course(s)?

In most online and on ground courses, students will be required to pay a resource fee which encompasses course textbooks and electronic materials, the University library, eBook collection, math labs, programming software, the Centers for Math and Writing Excellence, and PhoenixLink. In most instances, undergraduate resource fees of $170 are waived. The $195 resource fee pertains to the graduate level programs Some courses require hardbound texts and materials. In these courses, students are more than likely to purchase their books through off-campus commercial bookstores, and through various online sources.

Note: Tuition and fees as reported by the Educational Institution via the Department of Defense Voluntary Education Partnership Memorandum of Understanding
